

Parent-Child interaction: Home set up

Seeing and hearing you and your child play matters the most!

Below are some tips for how to set up your device to best capture you and your child playing.

- Place the phone or other device somewhere that is at the same height or higher than where you and your child play together, like on a desk, bookcase, or chair.
- Keep your device 3-4 feet away, facing in front or to the side of you and your child.
- Keep all play materials (toys, books) close by, but away from your child until a researcher tells you to play with the next item.
